

Data on these maps is based on individuals who self-identified as solely Native American or in conjunction with one other cultural affiliation. Approximately 57,000 individuals in Maryland claimed at least some Native American ancestry in the 2010 Federal Census.

